

Sepia Saturday

Launched by Alan Burnett and Kat Mortensen in 2009, Sepia Saturday provides bloggers with an opportunity to share their history through the medium of photographs. Historical photographs of any age or kind (they don't have to be sepia) become the launchpad for explorations of family history, local history and social history in fact or fiction, poetry or prose, words or further images. If you want to play along, all we ask is that you sign up to the weekly Linky List, that you try to visit as many of the other participants as possible on or after Saturday each week and that you have fun. Frequent participants include:

Alan <https://alanburnett.com>

Mister Mike <http://temposenzatempo.blogspot.com>

Kristin <http://findingeliza.com/>

Barbara <https://blackmtnbarb.blogspot.com>

La Nightingale <http://songsofanightingail.simplesite.com/167913745>

Tony <https://everton.blogspot.com>

Molly's Canopy <http://mollyscanopy.com/>

Postcardy <https://postcardy2.wordpress.com>

Susan <https://smkelly8.com/2018/08/11/sepia-saturday-128/>

ScotSue <https://scotsue-familyhistoryfun.blogspot.com>

Kathy <http://www.abbieandeveline.com>

Viridian <http://viridianpostcard.blogspot.com>

Helen <http://guacamolegulch.blogspot.com>

Debbie <http://debbysfamilygenealogyblog.blogspot.com>

Diane <http://www.michiganfamilytrails.com>

Wendy <https://jollettetc.blogspot.com>